

CONCLUSION

This is the conclusion of the Pastoral Search and Transition Guide and we hope that it has helped you navigate his pastoral transition and search well. We encourage you to continue participating in your local presbytery gatherings with your new pastor for fellowship, training and equipping as well as to consider serving in your presbytery and help other congregations by sharing what you learned through your journey. This can often happen in your congregation's Mission Affinity Group \(MAG\). If you are not currently in a MAG, contact your Presbytery MPT for more information. The MPT can also help your pastor(s) join a Pastor Covenant Group \(PCG\) if they are not currently in one. If the ECO Synod can be of any further assistance, please contact us at office@eco-pres.org otherwise we hope to see you at the next ECO National Gathering.

WHERE TO GO FROM HERE

For more information about ECO's Pastoral Search and Transition process, watch this informational webinar (coming soon) and/or reach out to your ECO MPT (contact here) about how they can help support the leadership transition process within your church. For any questions regarding ECO's Pastoral Search Assistance, Succession Planning, or any other resources, contact info@flourishmovement.org. In order to help you see all the resources and options ECO has to offer regarding Pastoral Search Assistance, please see the document called, "ECO Pastoral Search Assistance: Levels of Engagement". This document contains resources in different tiered levels ranging from free resources to fee based options.

GLOSSARY

We have also created a glossary of all the resources and links that have been mentioned in this guide. We hope that this will provide you with quick and easy access to anything mentioned in this guide that you might want more information about. View glossary here.

Note: When opening some of the links connected to this resource, you might be redirected to the Flourish website or other websites connected to ECO. All of these websites support the success of your upcoming pastor search and transition. The Flourish website exists as the educational and equipping arm for the denomination as well as a place for others who want to partner with us when it comes to assistance with training and consulting, courses, and other support services for individuals and churches seeking deeper growth and development outside the denomination. If you have any questions about any of ECO's Flourishing resources or the Flourish Network, email info@flourishmovement.org or visit the flourish website at: flourishmovement.org.
